Astronaut's Story Stranger Than Fiction

By VERN HAUGLAND

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Malcolm Scott Carpenter lived to tell a stranger-than-fiction story today—how he orbited the earth three times, overshot his landing by 250 miles and vanished for 41 minutes.

Plucked by helicopter from a dinghy in the lonely Atlantic Thursday, Carpenter, a Navy lieutenant commander, was taken late Thursday night to Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas for an emotional reunion with the first American to go into orbit, Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.

In relative isolation, he will tell his exciting story there to physicians and spacecraft technicians—before he can forget any part of it.

And then, probably on Sunday, he will be returned here for a news conference—a clinical discussion on the most dramatic bit of space fiction yet to come true.

To the scientists, the engineers, and the space medicine workers who monitored every minute of the almost-five-hours-long flight, this was a major milestone on the way to the moon.

The mission brought to light new dangers—the hazards of missing landing target areas by wide margins, for example—and pointed toward solutions of some of the problems of man in space.

It opened up, too, new vistas of voyage by satellite.

It may even have advanced the United States manned space program beyond the phase of three- or even five-or seven-orbit flights, and on to the field of 18-orbit, all-day missions.

The launching of Carpenter's Aurora 7 spacecraft at 7:45 a.m. Eastern Standard Time Thursday was a perfect one. The orbit into which the Atlas vehicle inserted the capsule was near the ideal.

And the orbital flight itself, as tracked off in Carpenter's flat, (verse reports, seemed almost routine in spite of nagging little problems that kept cropping up.

The really alarming part came after the Navy lieutenant commander fired the retro-rockets that would retard his speed sufficiently to make the capsule drop out of orbit and descend through the atmosphere.

Normally the heat of reentry, the ionization of the air in front of the spacecraft, cuts off radio communication for a minute or two. Glenn experienced a communications blackout at this stage of his historic flight of last Feb. 20.

But Carpenter's craft, struck dumb at the 12:30 p.m. reentry, never regained its voice. Nor did Aurora 7 become visible to the ships in the planned recovery area 800 miles southeast of here.

The craft might have been burned to a cinder. It simply disappeared. Aurora 7, tilted at a wrong angle at the time the braking rockets were fired, simply went into a longer, shallower descent than would have been the case had it dug in more steeply into the atmosphere.

The time and approximate location of explosions also can be estimated with other equipment and optical and acoustical devices can provide still more information.

The three smaller ships are converted trawlers which have electronic equipment designed to supplement information received by the big research ship.

The three ships are within 10 to 15 miles of the western edge of the test area, a Pentagon spokesman said.

This would mean that they are between 300 and 400 miles west of Christmas Island, the main test point.

"In order to reach their present location," the spokesman said, "these Soviet vessels, obviously on a large-scale military intelligence collection mission, actually traversed the restricted area to the north surrounding Johnston Island. Although they are currently just outside the restricted boundaries, they have ignored a U.S. naval destroyer which approached to warn them to possible danger."

The spokesman, in answer to a question, said the three ships have been in the area during most of the month of May. The first nuclear test in the present series was on April 25, followed by one April 27 and another May 2.

The spokesman, to another question, answered that U.S. Navy ships can do no more than warn the Soviet ships about the danger area. There is no international legal bar to the presence of the ships in the high seas area.

Russian Ships Spying on U.S. Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department said today that three Russian ships are within a few miles of the Pacific nuclear tests area "obviously on a large scale military intelligence collection mission."

The Defense Department said the ships "are heavily equipped to monitor U.S. activities in progress and have been actively engaged in obtaining what information is possible on our tests."

The largest of the three ships is the modern 26,000-ton research ship Shokalskiy which, the Pentagon said, is extensively equipped with instruments.

The ship also has a pad for launching meteorological rockets which, by Soviet statement, can reach the ionosphere to analyze the effects of nuclear explosion in the upper atmosphere.

The department said the big research ship also has obtained radio-chemical analysis of debris from explosions which would provide information on bomb design, yield and other data of significant military implications.

The time and approximate location of explosions also can be estimated with other equipment and optical and acoustical devices can provide still more information.

The three smaller ships are converted trawlers which have electronic equipment designed to supplement information received by the big research ship.

Van Dalsem May Lose ALC Post

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Perry County Rep. Paul Van Dalsem may be in danger next year of losing the Legislative Council seat he has held since that body was organized in 1949.

The Little Rock branch of the American Association of University Women is asking candidates for Pulaski County's 11 House seats if they intend to vote for Van Dalsem when council elections are held during the 1963 session.

Council members are elected by congressional districts with the old six-district alignment in effect. Pulaski County has 11 votes and other counties a total of five in what used to be the Fifth District.

In the past, by agreement, Pulaski County has elected one of its representatives to the council and permitted the other counties to elect one. That has been Van Dalsem since the start.

The AAUW questionnaire to Pulaski candidates asks two questions: Does the candidate feel it is to the best interest of Pulaski County for Van Dalsem to be on the council and will he vote for Van Dalsem?

Even if the Fifth District representatives reject Van Dalsem, he can still get on the council by appointment of the governor or the speaker of the House. Each names one member. Van Dalsem generally stays on good terms with governors and speakers.

Van Dalsem has been a controversial figure for many years.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The promotion of Brig. Gen. Harry J. Lemley Jr., of Hope, Ark., to Major General, was approved Thursday by President Kennedy and sent to the Senate for confirmation. Lemley is the son of retired Federal Judge and Mrs. H. J. Lemley Sr. of Hope.

Plans New Bakery
BATESVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Ideal Baking Co. has announced it will build a 40,000-foot addition to its bakery here during the next six months. The Ernest Jones construction Co. of Batesville has received a contract for $121,509 for the job.

THESE LOVELY LADIES ARE LINED UP AND READY for events facing them today. The events will be climaxed tonight at 8 o'clock when four of the girls will be selected Miss Poultry Princesses — which entitles them to compete for Miss Poultry Queen in the state contest next month at Little Rock.

Concerned Over Lack of Rain

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., expressing concern over the lack of rainfall in the state, returned to Arkansas Thursday night from Washington.

Fulbright, who is seeking reelection, said he may remain in the state until June 7. He is scheduled to appear at the Hope Poultry Festival today.

He said his campaign would be as vigorous as necessary and commented that he had read about his opponent, Winston G. Chandler but was uncertain he had ever met him.

Fulbright also said the situation in Vietnam is looking better but said Laos is a "very difficult place."

It is too early to appraise the outflow of Chinese from the mainland into Hong Kong, Fulbright said.

Alford Will Bring Vote
Push to Hope

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. Dale Alford, D-Ark., who showed his "Alford Bandwagon" to newsmen Thursday, said he would appear at three cities this weekend in his campaign for governor.

Alford has converted a house trailer into a mobile campaign headquarters. He said it would be on the road most of the time between now and election day, July 31.

The gubernatorial hopeful plans to appear at the poultry festival in Hope tonight. He journeyed to Springdale Saturday and attends a rodeo in Fort Smith on Monday. Saturday morning, while the trailer is on route from Hope to Springdale, Alford flies to Newport for a factory dedication.

Although he plans no speaking engagements at any of the cities, this weekend, he told newsmen he would "shake a lot of hands and meet people."

Asked to comment Thursday on several controversial topics, including the "Reverse Freedom Rides North" and an announcement by Education Commissioner Rides Ford that teachers may get a $1 million bonus this year, Alford said: "I do not want to comment on the actions or policies of any group or individuals."

He added his campaign would be based "on positive principles." The fully furnished trailer lets down on one side for a speaking platform and cost an estimated $7,500. Alford said he may sleep in it some during the campaign.

Ceiling Fix on Foreign Aid Voted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Foreign Affairs Committee has voted to fix a ceiling of $4,668,000,000 on the foreign aid program for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The committee, which virtually completed action Thursday on the authorization measure, was kinder to administration requests for fiscal 1963 than the Senate Foreign Relations Committee had been earlier in the week.

The ceiling approved by the House group was $210.5 million below the amount President Kennedy asked. The Senate committee cut $216.5 million from the $4,874,500,000 the President requested and approved a ceiling of $4,662,000,000.

The major reductions made by the House committee were $35 million from economic development grants, $41.5 million from support of allies' military forces and $125 million from the President's emergency contingent fund.

Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., said there probably would be attempts to slash this fund even further when the bill goes to the House.

Open House at Branch Gen. Hospital Sun.

The Branch General Hospital will have Open House for its new $125,000 addition, Sunday, May 27, 1962.

It is of fireproof construction of brick, concrete and steel with terrazzo floors throughout. Fire doors are provided between existing buildings. In front of the new building will be a water fountain with colored lights.

The new building will have a capacity of 22 beds and will bring a capacity to the hospital of 75 beds, of which 34 will be used for Geriatric patients.

The entire second floor of the new building will be bedrooms for acute surgical and obstetrical patients and the first floor will house the hospital laboratory, X-ray and patient rooms.

A spacious entry for admission of patients and emergencies is next to admission office, X-ray and Emergency Room. At the south end of the first floor will be a lobby and Chapel for the nursing annex.

Something new in hospital construction will be a fall-out shelter under the building. It is electrically wired, has both hand and electric air system, sleeps 16 at one time and has facilities to house 20 people.

The X-ray department can also

District Poultry Festival Gets Underway Here

This City took on a festive air early Friday as the annual Southwest Arkansas District Poultry Festival officially got underway this morning with a downtown parade featuring U.S. Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges and more than 20 beautiful ladies, all hopeful of winning tonight's beauty contest.

Activities started early. Various groups started cooking chickens at 4 a.m. for the barbecue later today. The ladies entered in the Chicken Cooking Contest started cooking at 7 a.m. in the school home ec cottage.

Secretary of Commerce Hodges arrived about 5 a.m. aboard a special train coach furnished by the president of the Texas and Pacific Railway. Other dignitaries scheduled to arrive during the day are Governor Orval Faubus and Senator William J. Fulbright. Congressman Owen Harris arrived in time to have breakfast this morning with Mr. Hodges and City Officials.

The Princesses started arriving at 9 a.m. and met the judges at a 9:45 a.m. coffee at Hotel Balfour. They lunched at the Barlow. The cooking contestants were luncheon guests of Mrs. Freeda Greenan at her home.

The parade downtown was slightly late and the hot muggy weather kept down the crowd. However, a fairly large crowd lined the streets, especially at intersections.

Highlight of the afternoon will be a business men's seminar at Hope High School auditorium. Several hundred professional and businessmen are expected to hear a short talk by the Secretary of Commerce. This will be followed by a question and answer period.

At 5 p.m. barbecue chicken will be served to everyone at Hammons Stadium. Part of the entertainment will be a twist contest. Principal address of the festival will be made by Secretary Hodges at 7 p.m. in Hammons Stadium. The Secretary is expected to discuss the poultry industry and its importance to the United States and to Arkansas.

The princess Pageant and Talent Show starts at 8 p.m. in Jones Field House. Over 20 girls from all over Arkansas will compete for the right to enter the State Poultry Festival next month.

Festivities will end with a ball for the Princesses and their escorts at 10:30 p.m. in the school practice gym.

Declares Little River Projects to Help Valley

By J.C. TILLMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

The effect the construction of power dams on rivers in Arkansas will have on large valleys, the state and even tri-state areas has been highly publicized.

What such structures on the Little River near DeQueen will do for that area alone has been spelled out by W. T. Moore, assistant to the chief of Army Engineers at Tulsa.

A dam on the river to create Gilliam Lake has been planned, along with other structures in the watershed reservoir complex. But Moore said advance studies on Gilliam enabled the engineers to justify inclusion of power.

Planning funds of $90,000 have been allocated for further study of the level of power needed. That level will determine the size of the reservoir pool.

Original plans called for 1,400 acres. With power inclusion this would be increased to 9,000 acres, Moore said, and therein would lie the increased benefits.

Once the project is out of the planning stages, one of the first benefits will be from small crews moved in to make hydrology studies, surveys, and do other preparatory work.

There would be, of course, benefits from payrolls to labor doing the actual work.

But the real bonus, according to Moore, comes when the task is completed.

Moore said the Little River project will mean a savings to local people in the valley of some one and a fourth million $1 1/4 million annually in food losses.

He estimated that increased and use through irrigation and changed land use because of availability of water would allow an increase in the area economy of $6 million annually.

The vastly increased size of the reservoir pool, Moore said, will also mean a greatly increased number of visitors to the area. He estimated the tourist level at one million a year, commenting that if each spent only $1 in the area, it would equal a heavy industry payroll.

The Little River includes Millwood Reservoir on the main stem near Ashdown and six upstream reservoirs: Pine Creek on Little River, Lukfata on Glover, Broken Bow on Mountain Fork, DeQueen on the Rolling Fork, Gilliam on the Cossatot and Dierks on the Saline.

A $116,000 contract for relocation of a pipeline has been carried out and total work in the Millwood area is now valued at about $400,000. Total cost of the Millwood project will be about $2.2 million. The project was five per cent complete May 1.

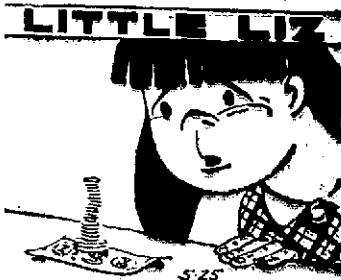

Initial work has begun at Broken Bow with construction of access roads and a diversion tunnel at $882,000.

The engineers budget for fiscal year 1963 includes $9 1/2 million for the Millwood and $3,400,000 for the Broken Bow projects.

Moore said a survey of water needs of the area is now being completed and will be made available in the near future.

He predicted that with completion of the projects, water costs would drop drastically.

Apparently enthusiastic, Moore said the project would be an immediate spur to the economy of the area.

The average family can use more money than it takes in and usually does.

Fewer Unemployed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Employ-

Bland said Thursday 13,041 unem-filed last week, one-third fewer than the 19,341 during the comparable period in 1961, Bland said.

Mystery Hide Story of Air Crash

UNIONVILLE, Mo. (AP)—The mystery shrouding the disintegration of a Continental Airlines jet and the missing body of a stewardess deepened today after locating a plane's hostess seat about 125 miles from the crash scene.
Civil Aeronautics Board investigators at Centerville, Iowa, who reported the finding, said they will have to lengthen the scope of the investigation.

The plane with 45 persons aboard crashed on a farm north of here late Tuesday night. The jet was the same one that once was hijacked in Texas by a father and son who claimed to be sympathizers of Cuba's Fidel Castro.

Previously, bits of the plane were discovered as far as 10 miles northeast of the crash area.
But today farmers in an area east of Cedar Rapids and in the Iowa City vicinity reported finding pages from an airline hostess' manual, foam rubber, napkins bearing the Continental imprint, and other items.

Between 35 and 40 investigators from federal agencies, the Air Lines Pilots Association, Continental and the manufacturers picked through the wreckage for clues to the accident.

The plane 4th graf 107-TA15

the claims were 11 per cent lower than the previous week and are at the lowest level since last November.

DOROTHY DIX

Their Home Too Clean to Live in!

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: My mother carries on a one-woman war against dirt. You could eat off our floors, they are so clean. Everything, including us children, is scrubbed.

We must scrub the soles of our shoes before coming indoors. We must scrub the whole bathroom after we wash up. We aren't allowed to sit in the parlor for fear of soiling the upholstery. We can't play in the library because we might scratch the furniture or woodwork. We eat in the kitchen to keep the dining room tidy. We have to spread newspaper under the table to catch crumbs and bits of food.

In all my 16 years I've never been allowed to invite friends to our home. "Too messy," Mother says. Nor can we even ask them to sit with us on the front porch. "It will get dirty," according to Mother.

We've never had a birthday party or anything else.

I didn't know differently until I visited a neighbor's house. The kids who played in their rooms; jumped on their beds; had snacks in the living room; and parties in the dining room. Their mothers sat and talked and played with them. Their fathers flew kites, pitched ball or played tennis with us. It was another world.

My father is as daffy as my mother now about cleaning. He spends all his time polishing silver, doorknobs and touching up woodwork with fresh paint. He and Mother feed and clothe us but that's about all. Their favorite word is, "Don't!" They're so busy house-cleaning they can't even take time out to kiss us, like the neighbors do their children. Some of the neighbors tried to help our mother change but it's useless. Her house, not us, comes first. If I ever marry I'll make sure my house is lived in—not exhibited.

Since there is nothing more my parents can do to this home, they've bought another to work on. We've already been told that the old furniture goes into the basement where we are to stay in order to keep upstairs "clean."

—New Home Delinquents.

Dear New: The only reason for having a home is to live in it and enjoy it. There is beauty in the patina of use; balustrades polished by the hands of young and old; a fireplace darkened from the burning of logs before which all the family has sat and dreamed; silver worn thin in contact.

Networks Do Fine Job on Space Flight

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Radio-Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—At the point Thursday afternoon when astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter had disappeared somewhere in the Atlantic Ocean, NBC radio reporter Merrill Mueller, paced, drew a long breath, and remarked with audible emotion:

"I don't know about you, but what can we say now? We're just waiting—for any kind of word."

Of course we were all just waiting for word on the fate of the astronaut. It finally came after those harrowing 35 minutes.

Once again, network television and radio did a magnificent job in keeping a nation informed on the astronaut's progress around the world, into and out of the ocean.

This reporter watched the launching of the space capsule on television and then followed the rest of the adventure with the help of both radio and television.

When there was worry about Carpenter's fuel supply, the situation was expertly explained. When first word came about the electronic beacon being noted by a rescue aircraft, Mueller, to whom I happened to be listening at that moment, instantly reassured the audience that receipt of the signal indicated the capsule was floating and intact.

It was a good example of the thorough preparation all the reporters had made for their jobs.

During those anxious 35 minutes, all the broadcasters devoted themselves to describing calmly the life-saving equipment Carpenter had available. Television was ready with pre-recorded film showing how the apparatus worked.

It was notable that during the period when Carpenter was lost, the sponsor of the radio program to which I was listening, omitted his commercials.

The flight, which built up to an almost unbearable climax, certainly started out on a calm, almost routine, note. The launching of the rocket with its human cargo went off almost on schedule, smoothly and without that excitement and tension one felt when John H. Glenn Jr., was shot into space.

All in all it was a pretty exciting day for the listener and viewer.

Recommended weekend viewing: Sunday — "Hurricane" — NBC, 10-11—A documentary about the storm Carla and its effects on Galveston, Tex.

Cornerstone Is Laid for Rayburn Bldg.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President

Kennedy laid the cornerstone of the Sam Rayburn Building today, and said no monument elsewhere could have pleased the late House speaker half so much as to have his name preserved on Capitol Hill.

When completed in 1964 at an estimated cost in excess of $70 million, the block-long building across the street from the Capitol will provide additional House office space.

Its great, unfinished bulk loomed over the President and other dignitaries as they administered the ritual pats of mortar and taps of mallet at the four-foot marble cornerstone.

But the shadow of Rayburn, the short, bald, soft-spoken Texas Democrat who personified the House of Representatives for years until his death Nov. 1, last year, was almost more perceptible.

Rayburn, speaker more than twice as long as any other man in history, saw that the legislative branch worked with presidents of both parties, Kennedy said, and "I know I would be joined by all my predecessors with whom he served" in acknowledging Rayburn's devotion to country.

Rayburn's successor, Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., pronounced the House's memorandum to "our late friend, not only a great man, but a good man also, gentle, kind and understanding."

Horatio Alger wrote more than 100 novels based upon the idea that virtue is always rewarded.

Many People Dream of One Big Break

NEW YORK (AP)—Many people dream of one big lucky break that will change their whole existence.

But they have to be ready for it when it comes. Enzo Stuarti, the tenor, was.

He was at home in New Jersey a year ago tinkering with his sports car when his big break came in the form of a phone call from the management of a hotel here.

A woman singer who was to open there that night had fallen ill. Could Stuarti fill in on such short notice?

"Why not?" replied Enzo. He wiped the grease off his hands, got in his car and drove to town. As usual Enzo, a health fan, ran around the block to pep up his circulation before stepping out before his audience.

"That 35 minutes changed my whole life—and that of my family," recalled Stuarti. He was an instant hit. Instead of a one-night fill-in, he remained for five weeks. "I knew after that I wouldn't have to worry any more about their mortgage payments," he said. "I was able to send my mother back to Italy for the first time. It is a luxury I'll never forget."

Although Stuarti had appeared in 13 musicals, made records, been given a Hollywood film test, that overnight success gave an immediate bounce to his career. His fees have since tripled.

Enzo, son of an Italian baker, came to this country at 13, and his first problem was to learn to speak English. After the death of his father, he worked as a baker, auto mechanic and tile-layer to support his family.

As a merchant seaman during World War II, he became the only survivor of a tanker torpedoed and sunk off the Azores. He entered show business after less than a year of vocal coaching.

"All my life I had a lust for singing," he said simply. Enzo, a friendly, volatile, deeply religious man, has only one real interest in life beside his music and family—sports cars. "They are my only vice," he said.

"I've got a wife and two children who put up with all this. I'm a pretty lucky guy."

"I count my blessings," Enzo said, "and I am grateful for what the good Lord has given me. I never take anything for granted—never. I feel that to be liked is a great privilege. I am aware of it, and never want to take advantage of it."

Reds Start to Look Like Champions

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

A weak hitting second baseman, flashing a big stick, a parttimer plugging the shortstop hole and a guy nobody wanted filling a complete vacuum at third and Cincinnati's problem plagued Reds suddenly have started to act like defending National League champions.

The patchwork trio—Don Blasingame, Leo Cardenas and Don Zimmer—collected nine of Cincinnati's 14 hits Thursday night as the streaking Reds whipped Houston 5-0 behind Joey Jay's six-hit performance and coasted to their ninth victory in 12 games.

Benchwarmer with a .219 batting average, Blasingame has raised his mark to .281. Cardenas has taken hold at short and is hitting at a respectable .270 clip.

Zimmer, who went to the New York Mets in the draft was acquired in a trade and now has been installed at third.

While the Reds were solving their problems, league-leading San Francisco regained its hitting touch when Willie Mays came off the bench, powered homers No. 12 and 13 and led the Giants to a 7-4 conquest of Philadelphia. Los Angeles' Dodgers remained a game and a half back by beating the Mets 4-2. Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis 5-2 and Chicago's Cubs edged Milwaukee 4-3.

In the American League, the first-place New York Yankees belted Kansas City 9-4. Boston knocked off Minnesota 7-5. Detroit nipped Baltimore 5-4 in 11 innings and the Los Angeles Angels beat Washington 7-4. Cleveland and Chicago were not scheduled.

All but one of the Giants' run came on homers. Consecutive shots by Mays and Orlando Cepeda, his 13th, snapped a 1-1 tie

In the sixth. After the Phils took a 4-3 edge in the seventh, Mays' two-run homer and Felipe Alou's two-run blow for San Francisco ahead to stay. Juan Marichal started for the Giants but had to leave in the fourth with a sore knee. Stu Miller (2-1) picked up the victory with Cal McLish (4-1) taking the loss.

Frank Howard homered for the Dodgers' first run, then drove in the deciding tally against the Mets with an eighth inning single. That gave the victory to reliever Larry Sherry (2-1), who took over for Johnny Podres. Craig Anderson (3-2) was charged with the defeat.

Singles by Dick Stuart and Don Hoak around a walk, and Don Leppert's doubleplay grounder gave the Pirates two runs in the fourth and snapped a 1-1 tie against the Cardinals. Stuart later homered in support of Al McBean (5-1), who ran into ninth inning trouble and needed relief help from Diomedes Oliva and Elroy Face. Ray Sadecki (2-3) lost it.

Bob Buhl (3-2) beat his former teammates when Andre Rodgers tripled and pinchhitter Jim McKnight stroked a single for the winning run in the ninth. Bob Hendley (2-4) went the distance, losing an eight-hitter.

Rookie Keeps the Yankees Rolling Along

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was just getting to the point where American League pitchers weren't quite so fearful about facing the mighty New York Yankees.

Yogi Berra hasn't had a hit for a week. John Blanchard is hitting only .235 and Bill Skowron .197. Elston Howard is 100 points under last season's average. Mickey Mantle is out with injuries and Roger Maris, can be handled by walking him.

Then along came Joe Pepitone and the pitchers aren't so relaxed any more.

The rookie from Brooklyn is on a hitting binge that has produced a single, double, two triples and three home runs in the last three games. The Yanks have won them all and Pepitone, 21, a lanky left-hand hitter, has had a key part in each.

Thursday he drove in three runs on a triple and homer as New York stopped Kansas City 9-4 and took a full game lead over idle Cleveland.

Minnesota fell two games off the pace when Boston handled the Twins 7-5. Detroit edged Baltimore 5-4 in 11 innings and Los Angeles beat Washington 7-4 in night games. Cleveland and the Chicago White Sox were not scheduled.

In the National League, San Francisco's first-place Giants belted Philadelphia 7-4. Cincinnati blanked Houston 5-0. Los Angeles' Dodgers whipped the New York Mets 4-2. Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis 5-2 and Chicago's Cubs edged Milwaukee 4-3.

Pepitone's two-run triple was the key blow in the five-run New York third inning that wrapped it up against the As. He hit his fifth homer of the season two innings later and Blanchard hit another in the sixth to provide Bud Daley with his second victory without a loss.

Carl Yastrzemski, Ed Bressoud and Carroll Hardy each drove in two runs for Boston as the Red Sox managed their second victory in 10 starts. Mike Fornieles (2-2) won it in relief.

One of Hoyt Wilhelm's fluttering knuckleballs got past Orioles catcher Charlie Lau in the 11th inning and Detroit's Dick McAuliffe raced home with the winning run on the passed ball. Home runs by Al Kaline, his 13th, Rocky Colavito and Bill Bruton accounted for all the earlier Detroit runs.

The Senators broke a 4-4 tie with three runs in the ninth and the help of some unusual Washington play afield. Bob Johnson hit his fourth homer for Washington in the sixth. Ryne Duren (2-3) won it as the fourth Los Angeles pitcher.

National Grid League Adop Retirement

NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League players with at least five years of service dating from 1959 will receive retirement benefits at the age of 65 under a new plan adopted Thursday by the league.

There was no attempt to spell out the exact payments to be expected at this time but they obviously would be considerably less than the baseball plan which has been in operation for several years.

"We hope to have some projection of the possible benefits in about two years," said Commissioner Pete Rozelle, as the league ended its three-day spring meeting. "When we are able to extend our coverage I think we would consider picking up retroactive service (before 1959) before we think of cutting the retirement age below 65. You must remember we are just starting. Eventually we hope to cover more players and pay the highest possible benefits. Approximately $500,000 will go into the fund this year. An unspecified amount already has been paid in to operate the health insurance and group insurance plans that have been in operation for two years.

Rozelle said $300,000 from the TV rights for the championship game, $110,000 from trading cards (gum, cereal etc., with pictures of players), $35,000 from the play-off bowl game at Miami and another $15,000 from the pro bowl game in Los Angeles would be earmarked for the pension plan. The players do not contribute.

The baseball pension also requires five years of big league service. Payments range from $38 a month at the age of 50 to as high as $723 a month at the age of 65 for a 20-year man. There are special benefits from annuities for players who have been active since 1952. Between $3 million and $4 million goes into the baseball pension fund each year, the bulk of it coming from the TV rights to the World Series and two All-Star games.
